INTERNATIONAL SOCIAL SCIENCE JOURNAL

Vol. XXXIV, 1982

SUBJECT AND AUTHOR INDEX

Subjects

African societies, dynamics of music-making in 639–656
African sport, women in 209–218
'Anthropomaximology' 277–289
Asia, status of traditional musician in 701–719
Brazilian society, musician in 667–682
British soccer terraces, social order on 247–255
Caribbean island ecosystems, migration as agent of change in 452–467
China, modernization and social science 347–356
Composers and free lances, social security for 683–699
Conflict and conflict resolution, and sport 185–196
Cultural approach to international negotiation 535–544
Documentation and democratization of information 737–746
Eco-city, problems of integrating knowledge with practice 469–480
Ecological problems in Swiss Alps 427–439
Ecological research, the human context of 395–410
Ecology in perspective 395–410
Economics of sport, in France 233–246
Economy, world, in the world system 37–59
Ecosystems, and man 375–393
of Caribbean islands, migration as an agent of change in 452–467
Education through movement 257–271
Environmental research and planning, social scientists in 481–491
European music, why the Japanese like it 657–665
France, economics of sport in 233–246
new directions for research in social sciences and humanities in 747–754
Games, sport and societal autonomy 219–232
Global problems as areas of international co-operation 113–132
Human sciences, and social practices 313–327 and social sciences, new perspectives for research in France 747–754
Ideology, science and policy impact 503–516
India, changing structure of music in 625–637
Information, democratization of, and documentation 737–746
International co-operation, global problems as areas of 113–132
Unesco standpoint on 79–91
International negotiation, cultural approach to 535–544
Japanese, why do they like European music? 657–665

Jazz, a music in exile 583–598
Land-development planning, social impact assessment of 441–450
Latin America, nueva canción in 599–623
Man and the Biosphere Programme, integration of natural and social sciences in 411–426
Man, potentialities of 277–289
Marshall, T. H., 1893–1981 157
Migration as agent of change in Caribbean 452–467
Movement, education through 257–271
Music, empirical sociology of 571–581
European, in Japan 657–665
in India, changing structure of 625–637 interaction through 639–656
Musical practice, sociology of 555–569
Musician, status in Brazilian society 667–682 traditional, in Asia 701–719
Music-making in African societies 639–656
National identity, and image of world society 93–112 and international sport 173–183
Natural sciences, integration with social sciences in MAB Programme 411–426
Nueva canción in Latin America 599–623
Pays d'Enhaut project (Switzerland) 427–439
Physical education and sport 291–301
Unesco International Charter of 303–306
Policy impact, ideology and science 503–516
Polish case of national identity and image of world society 93–112
Phychological adjustment and sports participation 273–276
Science and technology in global perspective 61–70
Soccer terraces, British, social order on 247–255
Social and economic statistics in the United Kingdom, information sources 723–746
Social impact assessment in land development planning 441–450
Social order on British soccer terraces 247–255
Social practices and human sciences 313–327
Social rights to development and crisis of welfare state 133–148
Social science and China's modernization 347–356
Social sciences, for the 1980s 495–502 integration with natural in MAB Programme 411–426 new directions for research in France 747–754 settings for (photo supplement) 517–534 tasks and challenges of 503–516
Social scientists in environmental research and planning 481–491
Social security for composers and free lances 683–699
Societal autonomy, games and sport 219–232
Sociological code for description of world society 11–21
Sociological knowledge, transmission of 329–345
Sociology, empirical, of music 571–581
of musical practice and social groups 555–569
Sport, alternatives in the organization of 197–208 and physical education 291–301 conflict and conflict resolution 185–196 economics of, in France 733–246 games and social autonomy 219–232 international, and national identity 173–183 participation and psychological adjustment 273–276 social change and women in Africa 209–218
Unesco International Charter of 303–306
Statistics, information sources for United Kingdom social and economic 723–746
Swiss Alps, ecological problems in 427–439

Technology and science in global perspective 61–70
Third World view of world society 71–77
Unesco, standpoint of on international co-operation and world problems 79–91
International Charter of Physical Education and Sport 303–306
United Kingdom, information sources for social and economic statistics of 723–746
Welfare state, crisis of 133–148
Women in African sport 209–218
Working time, reorganization of 149–156
World problems, Unesco standpoint on 79–91
World society, national identity and image of 93–112 sociological code for description of 11–21
Third World view of 71–77
World system, emerging science of 23–36
world economy in 37–59

Authors

ADAM, Ralph. Can the transmission of sociological knowledge be made more effective? 329–345
ADEDEJI, J. A. Social change and women in African sport 209–218
ARONSON, David. Jazz: a music in exile 583–598
BERGESEN, Albert. The emerging science of the world system 23–26
BLYTON, Paul. Reorganizing working time 149–156
BOOTH, Bernard F. Games, sport and societal autonomy 219–232
BORNSCHIER, Volker. The world economy in the world-system: structure, dependence and change 37–59
BOUTINET, J. P. Human sciences and social practices 313–327
BROOKFIELD, Harold. On man and ecosystems 375–393
CAGIGAL, José Maria. On education through movement 257–271
CALDWELL, Geoffrey. International sport and national identity 173–183
CARRASCO PIRARD, Eduardo. The nueva canción in Latin America 599–623
COHEN, Robert S. Science and technology in global perspective 61–70
CORREA DE AZEVEDO, Luiz Heitor. The musician in Brazilian society, past and present 667–682
DARBELLAY, Charly. Ecological problems in the Swiss Alps: the Pays d'Enhaut project 427–439
DE'ATH, Colin. Social impact assessment: a critical tool in land-development planning 441–450
DI CASTRI, Francesco. Editorial: Man in ecosystems 371–374
DUBE, S.C. Social sciences for the 1980s: from rhetoric to reality 495–502
DUCLOS, Denis. New directions for research in the social sciences and the humanities in France 747–754
ETZKORN, K. Peter. On the sociology of musical practice and social groups 555–569
FROLOV, I. T. Global problems as areas of international co-operation 113–132
GOPAL, Sarvepalli. Images of world society: a Third World view 71–77
HADLEY, Malcolm. Editorial: Man in ecosystems 371–374
HEINTZ, Peter. A sociological code for the description of world society and its change 11–21

HIMMELSTRAND, Ulf. Ideology, science and policy impact: thoughts on the tasks and challenges of the social sciences 503–516

HUMMEL, Charles. International co-operation and world problems: the standpoint of Unesco 79–91

JASINSKA-KANIA, Aleksandra. National identity and image of world society: the Polish case 93–112

JOHNSON, J. Samuel. Sports participation and psychological adjustment 273–276

JOSHI, O. P. The changing social structure of music in India 625–637

KUZNETSOV, V.V. The potentialities of man and 'anthropomaximology' 277–289

LÜSCHEN, Günther. Sport, conflict and conflict resolution 185–196

MALENFANT, Chantal. The economics of sport in France 233–246

MARSH, Peter. Social order on the British soccer terraces 247–256

MARSHALL, Dawn. Migration as an agent of change in Caribbean island ecosystems 451–467

NKETIA, J. H. Kwabena. Interaction through music: the dynamics of music-making in African societies 639–656

NUÑEZ, Alfonso. Social and economic statistics in the United Kingdom: a review of information sources 723–736

PLANTEY, Alain. A cultural approach to international negotiation 535–544

RÖSSEL-MAJDAN, Karl. Social security for composers and free lances 683–699

SACHS, Ignacy. The crisis of the welfare state and the exercise of social rights to development 133–148

SEURIN, Pierre. Sport and physical education 291–301

SILBERMANN, Alphons. What questions does the empirical sociology of music attempt to answer? 571–581

SPOONER, Brian. Ecology in perspective: the human context of ecological research 395–410

STOKVIS, R. Conservative and progressive alternatives in the organization of sport 197–208

TANENBAUM, Eric. Social and economic statistics in the United Kingdom: a review of information sources 723–736

TRAN VAN KHÊ. The status of the traditional musician in Asia 701–719

VIERA-GALLO, José Antonio. Documentation and the democratization of information 737–746

WATANABE, Mamoru. Why do the Japanese like European music? 657–665

WHYTE, Anne. The integration of natural and social sciences in the MAB programme 411–426

YANITSKY, Oleg. Towards an eco-city: problems of integrating knowledge with practice 469–480

ZAGLADIN, V. V. Global problems as areas of international co-operation 113–132

ZHAO FU SAN. Social science and China's modernization 347–356

ZUBE, Ervin, H. Increasing the effective participation of social scientists in environmental research and planning 481–492